

JANE GIBSON.

August 13, 1936.

Farmer on Hamilton Avenue about three miles from New Brunswick.

TESTIFIED (Pages 45 et seq.):

Had had trouble with thieves and on Thursday evening, September 14, 1932, her suspicious being aroused, she following on her unshod mule a noisy wagon along Hamilton Avenue to De Russeys Lane and through De Russeye Lane towards Easton Avenue. Her mule brayed once as she went (45-8).

When 50 feet from Easton Avenue she saw between her and Easton Avenue by the lights of a car which ran in and backed out, a man and a woman at the roadside (49-9).

She continued to Easton Avenue and saw a small car like a Ford Sedan across the road facing Bound Brook (50).

Rode back into De Russeys Lane, and thinking wagon might return to Italian Settlement rode off the Lane back of Phillips Farm parallel with Phillips Lane (50-1).

Tied her mule far back to small cedars so that its braying would not interfere with her again looking for the wagon (51).

Started on foot for De Russeys Lane and went about 40 feet (52).

Heard a quarrel of women there and mention of letters (52-3).

Saw a pocket flashlight strike something which glittered
